- As per Global Mail reporting, the personal information of donors to the GIVESENDGO pro-convoy fundraising website has been exposed on the leak website Distributed Denial of Secrets.[11] This information – amounting to at least 30 megabytes of data – includes names, email addresses, zip codes and IP addresses, according to open sources. Public speculation suggests the exposure of this data may be in relation to a hack of the GIVESENDGO website. CIG OSINT is currently attempting to capture the list.

- Open source indicates that PM TRUDEAU may be planning on invoking the Emergencies Act, which would provide the federal government with extra powers to address the Freedom Convoy protest, according to CBC News.[12] The article indicates that PM TRUDEAU is set to meet with provincial premiers at an undetermined time today. The outcome of this meeting may motivate the Freedom Convoy to continue or to intensify the protests.
